

LI : To use apostrophes for possession

An apostrophe is the same shape as a comma (,) but placed above the line (').

Apostrophes can be used to show that one thing belongs to another.

When we are talking about one thing, we call this singular (e.g. one rabbit).

When we need to say that something belongs to something singular, we put an apostrophe (') and then the letter 's' at the end of the name it belongs to.

Example: the rabbit's back leg

1. Can you mark in the missing apostrophes in the following sentences?
 - a. Peter Rabbits home was in the woods.
 - b. The mouses pea was very heavy.
 - c. Mr. McGregors back was turned.
 - d. Peters sneeze was very loud.
 - e. Cotton-tails coat is red.
 - f. Mrs. Rabbits umbrella is quite old.
 - g. Peter wished he had not come to Mr. McGregors garden.
 - h. Peters sobs could be heard from a long distance.
 - i. Mr. McGregors rake looked like it could really hurt a creature.